

SEVEN WAYS TO PROTECT THE SUPREME COURT

The President will nominate a Justice who will serve on the Supreme Court of the United States for decades to come. During the campaign, President Trump released a shortlist of Supreme Court nominees who he said were litmus-tested to overturn Roe v. Wade and uphold the Second Amendment. Here are things you can do to elevate the importance of the President's Supreme Court nominee!

- 1. Visit, call, and/or email your Senators' offices to tell them courts matter to you and ask them what they're doing to ensure the impartiality of the Supreme Court.
- 2. Host an event on the importance of the Supreme Court, judicial vacancies, and the confirmation process with your local ACS Chapter and local organizations (affinity bars, NAACP chapters, Why Courts Matter, local unions, etc.).
- 3. Reach out to local radio and television stations in your towns and universities (yes, even you, students!). Speak to your communities about the importance of the Supreme Court and its Justices through reliable and proven avenues of communication.
- 4. Submit an op-ed or letter to the editor to your local paper on the importance of the Supreme Court and what is at stake with this vacancy.
- 5. Talk to your friends and family about the importance of the Supreme Court and what is at stake. Post about the importance of the Court on your social media accounts.
- 6. Follow ACS on Twitter, Facebook, and LinkedIn.
- 7. Donate to ACS to ensure we can continue this important work.
